

Incident Prevention & Response for Inland Regions & Waterways

Letter to Management: Compile a letter to management outlining the benefits of attending CLEAN WATERWAYS. Download sample letter here.

Conference Materials: Offer to share lessons-learned with your co-workers. Bring home your conference materials and share your experience with your team.

Conference Sessions: Highlight the conference sessions most applicable to your job. Bring the highlighted program to management to reinforce the value your attendance will bring to your company.

Speaker Line-up: CLEAN WATERWAYS attracts key stakeholders to speak. You will have direct access to these industry experts since information sharing, question-answer sessions and networking are a vital part of the CLEAN WATERWAYS experience.

Networking Opportunities: Interact with a group of emergency response and environmental professionals who share your same goals. Contacts you make through networking can be invaluable once you return to work and can provide insight in future endeavors at work for years to come.

Attendee Certification: Customized certificates are available to verify conference attendance and session participation. These certificates may be included in personnel files to show training/education completion.

Exhibitor Line-Up: Between conference sessions, the education continues on the exhibit floor. Exhibitors are there to learn about your day-to-day challenges and discuss solutions. Bring back potential solutions to management that can help your company's role in spill prevention and response.

Cost-Saving Features: We understand that spending a day or two away from your job can be expensive, so we've worked to bring you savings wherever possible.
